

ANOTHER SHOCK PRODUCER IS OCTOBER EVE

Companion to "September Morn" Only There Are Several of Them.—Only One Real Costume in Entire Play.

By SALLY JACOBS

"October Eve" has arrived. Not according to the calendar, which only goes to prove that even a calendar can slip up on a date. In this instance, it's seven days behind time, for tonight is October Eve and it's not to be here for the customary thirty-one evenings, but only for four—Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, with an afternoon for an Eve on Saturday when the sister play to "September Morn" will be presented at the Columbia.

An artist's search for a model furnishes excellent opportunity for the posing that made the companion piece of "October Eve" the success it was. In place of one pose however there will be several by various members of the cast.

"It's a bit more sensational than 'September Morn' but I hardly think anyone will find it offensive—quite the contrary, but not vulgar," said Edward Armstrong last evening.

"The costumes?"

"Um—mostly—lights, that is, except Miss Hamilton. She wears THE costume."

"It is real smart, isn't it?" asked the prima donna as she exhibited one of the new frocks of yellow beaded chiffon over white charmeuse, built on long straight lines.

"Buy your clothes at home" should certainly be the slogan of the Phoenix women," she declared. "I have played in all parts of the United States and I have invariably made it my rule to shop where I am. I believe absolutely in reciprocity and

MRS. ADDISON M. WIATT PASSES TO GREAT BEYOND

Has Lived in Phoenix for Seventeen Years; Prominent in Church Circles

Her many friends in this city and vicinity will regret to hear of the death, at her home, of Mrs. Addison M. Wiatt, who passed away on last Tuesday afternoon. For over seventeen years she made her home in or near Phoenix, and there are few who possess more real friends, or better deserve them, than did Mrs. Wiatt. Her never-failing kindness and unassuming sweetness of character made her more than ordinarily beloved by the many who have known her in her home, or who may have been associated with her in church work. Of unusually patient and cheerful disposition, Mrs. Wiatt made a helpful impression on the lives of scores of her friends.

Mrs. Wiatt, whose maiden name was Julia B. Flingerland, was a native of Michigan, and it was there that she married Mr. Wiatt. They later removed to Minneapolis, where she is still well remembered, particularly by her co-workers in the Baptist church, in which she took a most active interest. Besides her husband, she is survived by two children, Earl S. and Lottie Lee, both of whom are well-known young people of this city. Earl is connected with the Phoenix National bank, while Miss Lottie has a position in the city schools. It is probable that her husband, after settling his affairs here, will leave for his old home in Virginia, where he

if the Phoenix people come to see the act, the Phoenix shops are entitled to my patronage. The thing is that I'll not be consistent in this, for I'm afraid I'll buy an overcoat here and the next town will suffer for you certainly have splendid shops, service and assortment. The young women were most gracious and eager to please. I saw gowns of chiffon, velvet, silk and serge—well, there's only one thing to it, Mr. Armstrong," she said to the producer, "you simply must raise my salary."

(Exit Mr. Armstrong.)

In the superior court yesterday the contest for recount of votes cast in the Phoenix precincts, brought by H. A. Davis, was continued. The motion made by Sam F. Webb as contestee to make the statement more specific and certain was granted. Contestant was granted leave to amend the statement of the contest. The case will be continued at 1:30 this afternoon.

In the same session Mamie Harned was granted a decree of divorce from Carl E. Harned.

The county attorney dismissed a number of cases including that of failure to provide for his children against Frank Williamson; those for failure to support their wives against Robert Chipperfield, John Tomasco, Adolfo Yrigoyen and W. H. Ream; the embezzlement charge against Dick Erdmann; and that of violation of the civil code, 5135, relating to the driving of automobiles, against W. A. Porter.

The funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Moore and McLellan on Adams street. The Rev. J. Harvey Deere will officiate.

Louisville and Milwaukee, with Indianapolis close by, are putting up a great battle for the American association pennant.

TO STUDY PEACE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—A request for permission to make the study of peace a part of the regular public school course will be made to the board of education, according to Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools. The request will embody a resolution recently adopted by the school principals.

"War has been an obsession of the public mind for so long it will take continued, repeated and patient effort to make the knowledge of the blessings of peace a part of our daily life," the resolutions read.

CORNER STONE OF EL ZARIBAH

Will be Laid by High Masons Before Special Caravan Leaves for Great Ceremonial at Grand Canyon.

"Yes," said Shirley Christy, approached by a Republican representative last night, "it is true we are going to lay the corner stone of the splendid Shrine Temple on North Center. We are going to have the ceremony of starting the great auditorium and shrine home as the preface to the greatest ceremonial ever held in the great west."

"Several days before the train leaves for the canyon members of the shrine will gather to officiate at the laying of the stone which will be the first step in the erection of what promises to be the most beautiful public structure in Arizona. On the day, the great Hearst-Selig news service will have on the ground a famous camera man, who will perpetuate in motion pictures the impressive ceremony of the starting of the temple."

"I can also say that we will take advantage of the chance afforded, to see that Arizona is not forgotten, for we will have written a scenario which will take the camera man over the state to make setting for the story that we intend to tell to all the world in the movies."

He will catch the irrigation projects of the valley, will photograph the shriners in the picturesque chaps, and spurs and fez. He will photograph the wonder scenery along the route of the roads to the north. He will be on hand to take the imperial potentate, Frederick R. Smith and his distinguished party, when they alight from the train which brings them to the canyon. He will get a few hundred feet of the train, and the men who make up the special from California, many of them will be the great business men of the coast. He will follow the shrine party along the rim of the great desert wonder to preserve in motion pictures an event so notable that it is attracting visitors from every part of the United States.

He will make the trip down the sides of the canyon when the novices are escorted to the bottom by the most unique caravan ever to be sent to the turbulent river at the bottom of the great declivity.

"It is expected," said Mr. Christy, "that this motion picture alone will be shown to thousands of shriners and high degree Masons all over the world. For the Hearst-Selig people to send it out in their weekly, and in addition they are to make and donate to the shrine temple of Arizona, a full reel of the splendid scenes along the route, with the ceremonies at the laying of the corner stone, and the subsequent trip to the canyon and to the river at its bottom. In the future, this remarkable reel of pictures will be a record that will show the world what Arizona has, and what Arizona can do."

"I want to say," said Mr. Christy, "that I feel mighty grateful to The Republican for the splendid editorial on the canyon trip. It carried with it a wonderful confidence in the future of this state. It pointed out what we must do to let the world know, that right here in Arizona, we have so many things that are the peer of their counterparts anywhere else, that it is a spot that must be reckoned with in the future. It was a great story in itself, and I hope will arouse the shriners in the state to a realization of the magnitude of this ceremonial, in the benefits it is sure to bring to the state."

"When the splendid entertainment which we have provided for the visitors to the canyon is witnessed by these outsiders it is going to make them sit up and take notice of this temple. El Zaribah is a new body, comparatively speaking, and it is in a state where the chance for increase is limited yet this ceremonial will be staged and offered in a manner that will do credit to a lodge, with five times the membership of El Zaribah. It is going to be first, a splendid sample of the hospitality of Arizona-El Zaribah."

"Every spot in the state is going to be represented by some one or more of its big men. These big men will meet many big men from other sections and they will (the visitors from other states) go back to their respective homes with a realization that Arizona is a live one, and that her shrine temple, in the language of 'Doc' Bird, is a humdinger."

"The exact date for the laying of the corner stone will not be made public until the scenario for the motion picture is completed, which we trust will be ready in a few days. The story will show the state to advantage and it is with this end that a careful review of the chances afforded is necessary."

Daddy of Consistory Here

George J. Roskrug, who is one of the greatest Masons in the state, and who plays a prominent part in the work of the consistory at Tucson passed through the city yesterday en route to the north where he will communicate the degrees of the consistory to several classes in that section. Many are awaiting the chance to go higher up in Masonry, in order to be able to take the shrine at the coming ceremonial. Mr. Roskrug, who is one of the pioneers of the state, said last night that nothing in the history of fraternal orders ever launched in Arizona has commenced to rival the ceremonial at the canyon. He predicts that this will mark an epoch in the annals of not only the temple of El Zaribah, but in the shrine at large. On Mr. Roskrug's return from the north he will communicate the degrees of the consistory in Phoenix. A special class will be on hand here to take the work.

MERELY FORGOT WOMEN VOTERS

Chairman Babbitt Says They Were Left off the Ticket and Out of the Organization in Moment of Democratic Aberration

The ladies of the Civic League were entertained yesterday by a guileless young man of the name of Babbitt, Mr. Don C. Babbitt, who set out in his capacity of chairman of the democratic county committee, to put his party right with the women voters. Mr. Babbitt came to inform them that they were without representation on the democratic ticket or any of the democratic committees, a most deplorable fact, not traceable to any democratic animosity toward women with votes in campaign times, but to pure forgetfulness of the existence of the women. They had just been overlooked, just as if they had no votes. Mr. Babbitt was very sorry and so were all the democrats, the management and the candidates. The ladies were evidently not entirely satisfied or had not been thought of. She would rather have been thought of than not at all.

The oversight was not atoned for by the announcement of Mr. Babbitt that it had been decided to form an auxiliary committee of ladies, one for each regularly elected delegate, and the elected delegates who hold their places under authority of law will attend to the business of the campaign, while the auxiliary committee for which no provision has been made in law must content itself with being honorary.

Observers of the proceedings in the democratic committee on Monday were of the opinion that the women were not forgotten but that they were very much in the thoughts of the committeemen who tried to forget them but were not permitted by W. L. Barnum to do so. Mr. Barnum kept bringing up the subject of women representation on the committee and the subject was persistently side-tracked, all propositions of Mr. Barnum for placing ladies regularly on the committee being voted down.

But Chairman Babbitt having made the confession of democratic forgetfulness of the ladies proceeded to point out to them that the coming of the millennium would be facilitated by the retention of this forgetful party in power in Arizona.

NEWCOMERS' DAY SET FOR COMING WINTER

Cordially Date Will Be Some Time in February; Committee to Gather Data for Dig Program

Newcomers' day with all its gladdening noises, its hand-shaking, its cordiality and its welcome, is an established institution of the Phoenix board of trade. At a meeting of the Newcomers' day committee, under its chairman, Barnett E. Marks, the plans for the "day" were started yesterday.

It was settled that the proper date would be between the latter part of January and February 14. This is far away, but the committee believes in starting this thing early enough so that there will be no detail overlooked.

Each member of the committee has agreed to think the plans over and submit in writing suggestions for the program. This will be the subject of a report to be rendered about the middle of October, when the committee meets again.

CLARK JURY DISAGREES

PRESCOTT, Sept. 23.—The jury in the case of D. H. Clark, better known as "Dud," who has been on trial for ten days past on a charge of misappropriating county funds while serving as road superintendent, disagreed this morning after being out since yesterday. It is said that the last ballot stood seven for acquittal and four for conviction.
